

CLAIMS ADMINISTRATION SERVICE

Outsourcing claims processing allows you to reduce administrative costs, decrease cycle time, and significantly boost cash flow

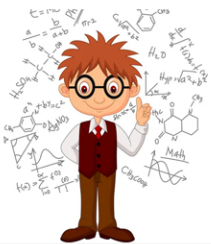

We live in an Artificially Intelligent (“AI”) economy. From chess-playing computers, real-time speech recognition on our smartphones, to self-driving Tesla’s, technologies powered by AI are accomplishing specific tasks by processing large amounts of data accurately and adapting to patterns in real-time.

But you may not know we have begun to use cutting-edge machine learning algorithms using predictive data analytics to power the next generation of claims processing.

Meet Auggle™ our proprietary claims processing genius. Auggie gathers all completed warranty/extended warranty jobs on an end of day basis and assigns them to expert claims adjudicators familiar with your business management software and the most popular claims filing systems. Productivity is gained by limiting the knowledge needed by one individual to get the maximum number of claims submitted, accepted and paid by each of your job sources. Your job is to handle only those claims that are missing critical information, such as product serial numbers, or that may require you to contact the job source directly.

Enjoy an acceptance rate nearly 100% because we possess both the knowledge of the unique business rules by job source and technology to get your claims processed and paid in a timely manner.

Increased Approval Rates

Our AI technology and service eliminates virtually all common errors and streamlines claims processing to increase approval.

Automated Processing

Experience faster processing turnaround with our state-of-the-art processes executed by ClaimWorks™, our proprietary artificially intelligent software.

Skilled Claims Adjudicators

Qualified adjudicators with industry experience amplify the benefits of automated efficiency.

Want to learn more about our Claims Processing Service or get a price quote? Call us today 877-311-6602 and one of our service industry experts will be happy to assist you.